Concept

Beneath every human being there is a huge void, unable to feel itself and insatiable with the feeling of acceptance of those around us. Everyone suppresses part of their feelings, the ones we believe are undesirable or inadequate, that part of ourselves we hide to the world due to the fear of being shunned because of them.

It's a form of emotional regulation, a way to keep ourselves at bay of our own selves, as a defence mechanism from emotional harm, leading to unwanted circumstances for those whose only way out is to resort to this. Suppressed emotions can lead to mental chaos, like an old ball and chain attached to our inner turmoil, causing these individuals to appeal to unhealthy coping strategies, like substance abuse or self harm.

All this information that drenches inside of my mind translates itself from within in form of garments. As fashion is not about only about looking good on our garments, but to feel comfortable with our own selves while we wear them.

Everyone gets lost on other people expectations, when the only expectation that really matters is your own.

This collection is based on the concept of suppressing feelings, the hunchback symbolizes everything we keep to ourselves before it explodes and the straight jackets the strings around our real feelings, unable to shine due to our own fears and insecurities. This collection is a wake up call for those stuck on their own fears, as a way to make them realize that their real selves shine brighter despite being sealed on their minds.

GARMENT 1

The Asylum Hunchback

This garment is inspired on the supression of feelings, where the shape of the hunchback symbolizes those supressed feelings and how they affect our minds is portrayed into the straight jacket inspired shirt and pants, where the sleeves crossing in front of the garment are the padlocks of our true self.

GARMENT 11

The prisoner overall

This garment is inspired on the end of the line of a mental illness, where you are thrown into a ward and your only ally is yourself.

The overall represents the maximum point of suppression, where you feel a prisoner of your own mind, while the jersey with the long sleeves represent the inability of helping yourself while the madness consume you.

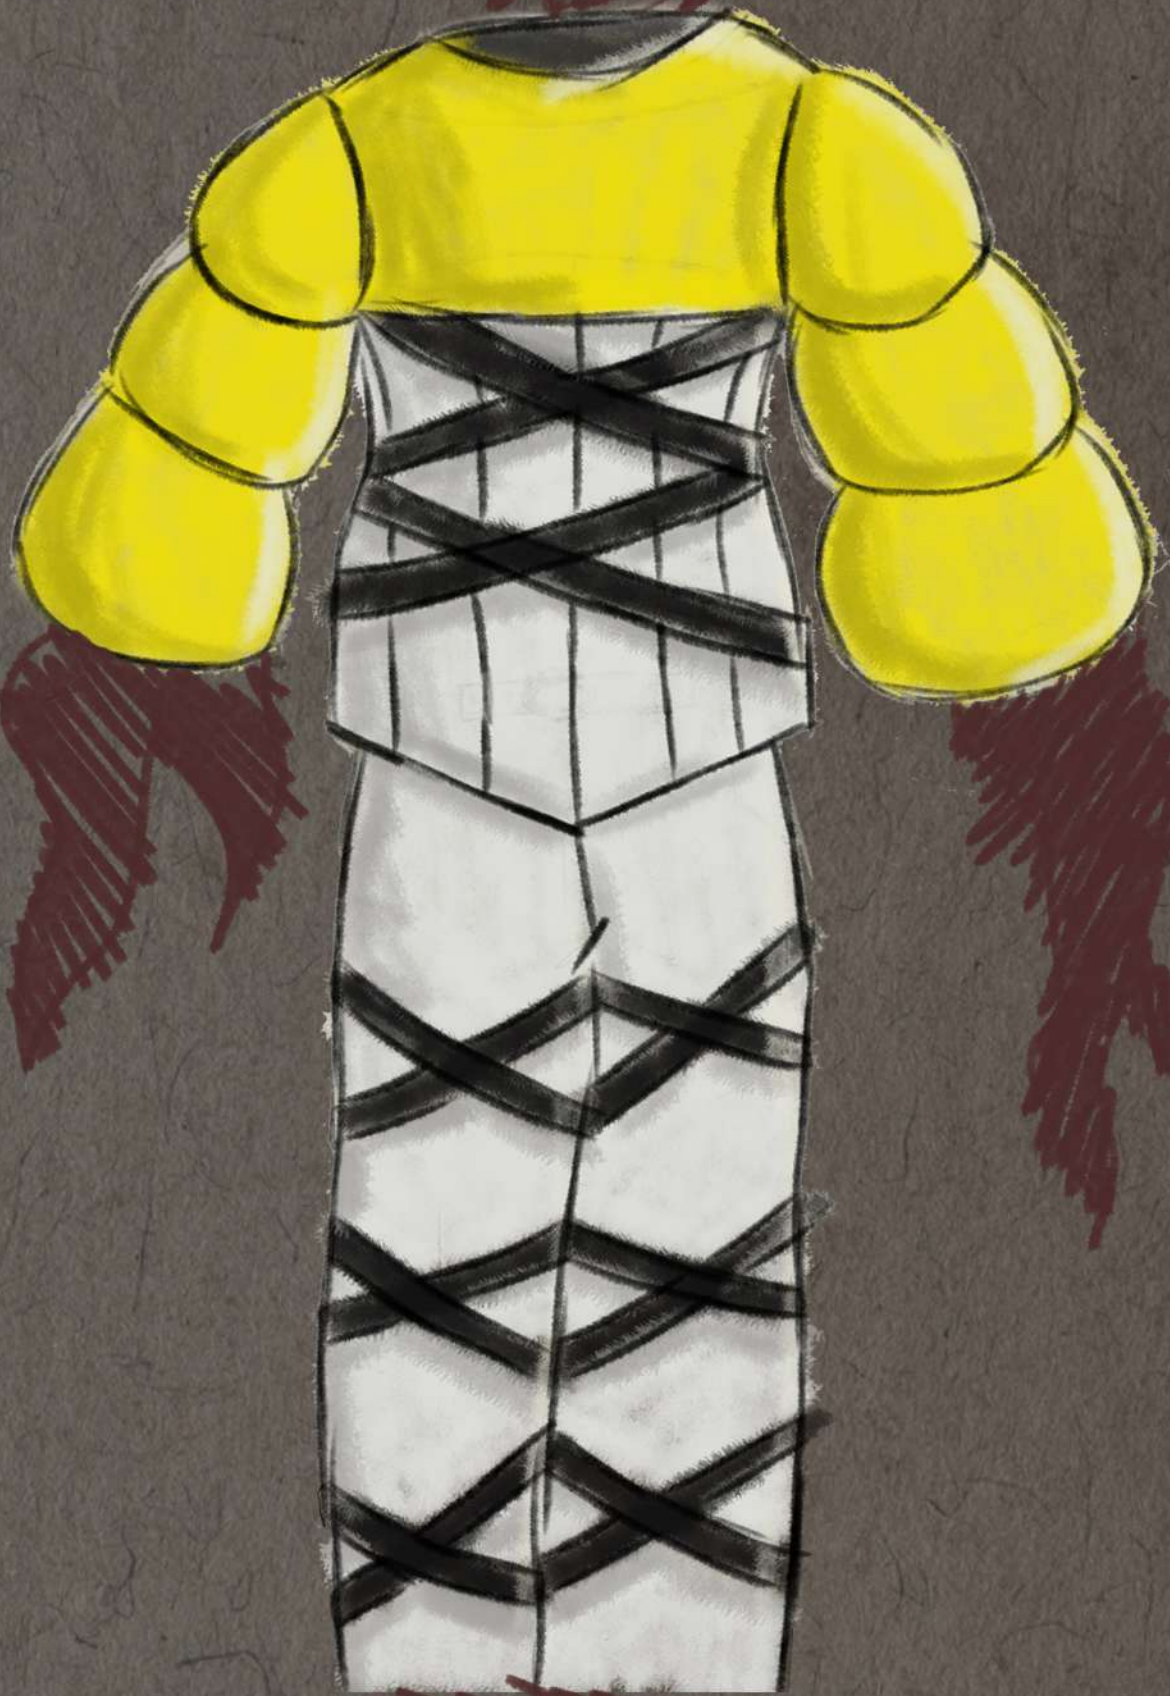

GARMENT III

The asylum maiden

This garment represents the process of healing and the fact that we should be proud of our own selves. All the imperfections of the dress were done in purpose to portray the imperfections of human mind. The blazer represents that life is not always about being perfect, but to enjoy our own beauty and imperfections.

GARMENT IIII

The ghost of mind

This garment represents the ghost of a sick mind. The corset and the pants with the black straps around it showcase the new self slowly removing the chains of the suppressed feelings. The bright padded sleeves portray a padded room, where the human mind lands at its lowest point. That room acts as a reminder that we have to keep taking care of our selves if we don't want to fall into madness.

Conclusion

Despite the weird and extravagant character of the collection, the real purpose is a wake up call for all the people that are going through mental illnesses. Getting help is the first steep into recovery and we shouldn't be afraid of it, because at the end, everything will be worth, it's not going to be an easy road, but feeling good about yourself and your mental health is priceless.

Special thanks

To my tutor Jason, for encouraging me to keep improving my skills and to share my conceptual ideas with the world.

To my technicians Valentina and Anne, for all the help i got from them on the studio and for all the new things they taught me this year working with them

To my family and friends, specially my brother, who came from Spain to UK to help me with the shooting and the photoshoot of the collection.

To my girlfriend Natalia, for all the emotional and mental support, for taking care of me when i couldn't take care of myself and for all the help with the make up and the photoshoot.

Jason
